

HVAMMUR

ICELAND

POST CARD

Hvammur today.

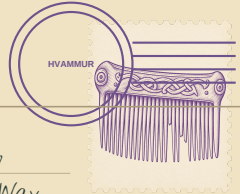

Such a lovely place and a great museum dedicated to Aud.

They even had a treasure hunt to find artifacts from Aud's time.

I was able to solve it and had a lovely time discovering the countryside. I particularly enjoyed the road that followed the forest.

I might just have to remember how many bridges, fords and gates I crossed.

With love,
Aunt Liv

FUN FACT

Aud claimed the entire valley between two rivers here in Dalasysla, then freed every thrall aboard her ships and granted each one land of their own. One, Vifill, got the valley still called Vifilsdalur today — she's one of very few women named as a primary land-claimant in Landnamabok, Iceland's own settlement record.
